

INNOVATIONS FOR SUCCESSFUL SOCIETIES

Planning Transformation in a Divided Nation: Kenya Vision 2030

In 2005, public and private planners in Kenya began to develop an ambitious strategy to transform Kenya into a middle-income country with a high quality of life. Although the disputed 2007 presidential election threatened to derail the process, political rivals agreed to share power and adopted the Vision 2030 strategy. Read how these leaders crafted a document which now serves as a road map for development in the country.

Read More

Creating a Green Republic: Payments for Environmental Services in Costa Rica

In 1995, faced with the defunding of a program of reforestation subsidies, Costa Rica's minister of the environment, RenÃ© Castro, built a broad-based coalition to press for a revamped national forestry law. Two years later, Costa Rica implemented the world's first countrywide program of payments for environmental services. With funding from a new fossil fuel tax, carbon credit sales, and money from companies that benefited from the forests, the program helped reduce the destruction of primary forest and encouraged reforestation of degraded land.

Read More

ISS Featured Interview

Dr. Bitange Ndemo, Permanent Secretary of Kenya's Ministry of Information and Communication, describes the challenges he faced in successfully launching Kenya's open data portal in 2011, the benefits of open government data, and the roles and responsibilities of the government offices that manage the portal.

About Innovations for Successful Societies

Innovations for Successful Societies (ISS) helps public servants, policy makers, and scholars share institution-building strategies that work in especially challenging contexts. ISS has published nearly 150 case studies and more than 380 interviews, all of which are available free online. These materials describe reform efforts in more than 60 countries, attracting more than 40,000 visits to the program's website from people in 195 countries last year. ISS is a joint program of Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs and Bobst Center for Peace and Justice.

Visit the ISS Website

Innovations for Successful Societies

Phone: +1 609-258-5258

Fax: + 1 609.258.7762

iss@princeton.edu | successfulsocieties.princeton.edu

Join the ISS Mailing List

 PRINCETON UNIVERSITY